

Have you been left holding the bag?

Let Terracon craft a carrier for you!

Terracon works with manufacturers and consumers of single-use containers who refuse to settle for ill-fitting off-the-shelf trays, barrels and drums to hold and transport their precisely engineered bags and painstakingly crafted drug products.

Biopharmaceutical manufacturers have recognized the advantages of switching from portable process vessels with their inherent requirements for validated cleaning processes to single use bags of all shapes and sizes. With this in mind, Terracon has been designing systems that help overcome the difficulties and unique challenges that result from this new technology. The single use bag is only half the solution to a manufacturer's cleaning and validation hassles. Without a properly designed and fitted container, the bag may introduce as many problems as it solves.

Terracon is prepared to team up with bag manufacturers and their customers to ensure that everyone has the complete solution to their unique problem.
